

The Department of Earth and Planetary Sciences at the University of California, Santa Cruz (UCSC) invites applications for a position in planetary sciences, at the Assistant Professor (tenure-track) level. Applicants' research should focus primarily on processes and bodies in this solar system (other than Earth). We have a preference for candidates concentrating on research areas that include, but are not restricted to: planetary atmospheres; planetary surface processes; cosmochemistry; impact processes; and orbital dynamics. We also welcome qualified applicants whose technical expertise will build upon or complement our existing strength in areas such as planetary interiors and fluid dynamics.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, mentor research by graduate and undergraduate students, and teach a range of classes at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

RANK: Assistant Professor

SALARY: Commensurate with qualifications and experience

BASIC QUALIFICATIONS: PhD or equivalent degree in Earth or Planetary Sciences or a related field and a demonstrated record of research experience.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Demonstrated excellence in research; ability to develop external funding. A commitment to and talent for teaching at graduate and undergraduate levels.

POSITION AVAILABLE: July 1, 2014, with academic year commencing September 2014.

TO APPLY: Applications are accepted via the UCSC Academic Recruit online system, and must include: 1) curriculum vitae (including a list of publications), 2) a brief summary of research and teaching interests and experience, 3) contact information for at least four people prepared to write a letter of recommendation, and 4) up to three examples of published material. Applicants are invited to submit a statement addressing their contributions to diversity through research, teaching, and/or service. Documents/materials must be submitted as PDF files.
