

Earth and Planetary Sciences Department, UC Santa Cruz

🌀🌀 Development Fact Sheet: Eli Silver Fund 🌀🌀

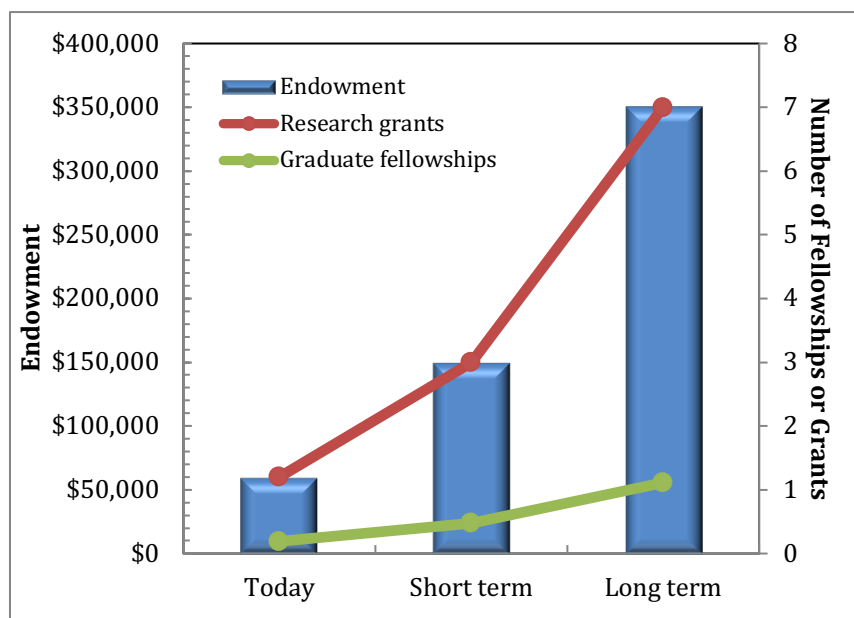

Updated: June 2020

Purpose: The Eli Silver Earth and Planetary Science Opportunities Fund supports undergraduate majors and graduate students in the UCSC Earth and Planetary Sciences Department, contributing to costs for professional development, education, and living expenses.

History: The Eli Silver Earth and Planetary Science Opportunities Fund was established by a group of Eli's former students in honor of Eli's numerous scientific achievements, outstanding teaching and mentoring contributions, and distinguished service. The fund is intended to accelerate the pace of professional and educational development for EPS students (undergraduate majors and graduate students), and to offset increasing costs for educational and living expenses, helping to launch these students' careers. Eli remains an active and influential member of the EPS community, as he enjoys Emeritus status, and we are pleased to recognize his legacy and support current and future EPS students.

Status: The Eli Silver Fund was launched in December 2016, and we quickly passed the minimum endowment level of $25k. The fund now stands at ~$60k. Excellent!

Endowment Goal: The Eli Silver Fund has started to support small grants to students. Our longer-term goal is to fund bigger projects and provide more generous student support, especially for students who have financial need. When we grow the endowment to $100k, we can give multiple awards or a partial scholarship. We need to raise about $350k to give a full one-quarter fellowship each year.

Our Request: Please donate to the Eli Silver Earth and Planetary Science Opportunities. You could make a one-time donation or pledge to give annually.

Please see information on the back of this flyer for detailed information about how to give.

Thank you for your support of Earth and Planetary Sciences at UCSC! 🙌
